

MEAT KINGS WILL FEEL THE LEASH

Indicted for Conspiracy
by New Jersey
Grand Jury

LIMITING MEAT SUPPLY

Big Packers Will be Extradited to
New Jersey for Early Trial.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 26.—Prosecutor Garven took the initial step today for the extradition of the 21 directors and agents of the meat trust indicted yesterday, to bring them within the jurisdiction of New Jersey. He realizes he will likely have a great fight, but declares the indicted men will eventually find every avenue of escape closed.

New York, Feb. 26.—The heaviest blow yet struck the Beef Trust by way of punishment for arbitrarily raising prices came yesterday when the grand jury filed a blanket indictment charging a criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Six corporations, including the parent organization, the National Packing company and 21 individual directors, were named in the conspiracy charge. They are as follows:

CORPORATIONS.
The National Packing Company.
Armour & Co.
Swift & Co.
Morris & Co.
Hammond Packing Company.
G. H. Hammond & Co.

INDIVIDUALS.
J. Ogden Armour.
A. Wallace Armour.
Linda F. Swift.
Edward F. Swift.
Charles H. Swift.
William Morris.
J. H. Morris.
Arthur Meeker.
Frederick Tilden.
L. A. Clifton.
Thomas E. Wilson.
Thomas J. Conners.
F. A. Fowler.
L. H. Heyman.
Jas. E. Bathgate, Jr.
George J. Edwards.
Frederick B. Cooper.
D. E. Hartwell.
H. B. Darlington.
A. A. Fuller.
Samuel C. Patterson.

Most of the individuals indicted are millionaires of Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis. Many of the names best known in the packing industry are included in the conspiracy charged. All will be arrested as soon as the authorities can locate them unless they surrender of their own accord. They will be extradited to Jersey City and held on bail for an early trial.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the grand jury, conducted by Prosecutor Garven, filed into court, where Judges Blair and Carey were sitting. The indictment represents the work of the grand jury since February 1, over 200 witnesses were examined and more than 3,000 pages of testimony recorded.

The vital evidence on which the indictment is based is said to have been given by the Jersey City agents of the National Packing company.

These agents testified that the price of beef and poultry was fixed in Chicago and sent to them.

They declared that supply and demand had nothing to do with the price fixing.

In most instances they were reluctant witnesses, and some had to be summoned three or four times before the evidence was secured.

The indictment sets forth that the National Packing company and other corporations mentioned are organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey. They are engaged in the buying and selling of cattle, and other live stock, poultry and other products.

They maintain and operate stockyards, packing houses, refrigerating and cold storage houses. In the course of their business they make large purchases of live stock, shipping the same to Chicago, and there slaughtering large numbers of such live stock, thereby shipping the carcasses to Jersey City for sale.

NEWARK AFTER THE MT. VERNON BRIDGE WORKS

An effort is being made by the Newark Board of Trade to secure the bridge works which was destroyed by fire in Mt. Vernon a short time ago, and if it can be brought to Newark another good industry will be added to the list in the city. The bridge company, which is known as the Mt. Vernon Bridge Co., manufactures all kinds of steel bridges, and would furnish employment to about 300 skilled workmen. The monthly payroll would be about $200,000.

The Board of Trade sent Secretary W. C. Wells to Mt. Vernon and made the company a proposition of 15 acres of ground free and a bonus of $25,000 and direct connection with the B. & O. Their proposition is now under consideration. Piqua, Mansfield and Columbus are also anxious to secure the plant and have made offers to induce the company to move from Mt. Vernon, where they have been located for a number of years.

The citizens of Mt. Vernon are anxious to retain the industry, which is one of the principal ones of the city, and they have started a popular subscription campaign in the effort to raise $250,000, which the company asks if they remain there.

PATROLMAN STRUCK BY STREET CAR

Unseen by Motorman Morgan Devore on an east bound city car, John Zimmerly, an extra policeman, living at 42 Union street, was run down by the car about 11:30 o'clock Friday night, and badly injured. He was rushed in the ambulance of Bowers and McCament to the Sanitarium, where his injuries received attention. Although painful, his hurts are not serious.

Owing to the illness of several regular patrolmen, all the extra men on the force have been assigned to duty, and yesterday it became necessary to put still another man at work. Zimmerly has been out of work for some time and several days ago he applied to Chief of Police Zergiebel for police duty at the first opportunity.

Friday the chance came and Zimmerly was notified. He was fitted out with a uniform and complete outfit last night and assigned to a beat in the West End. He reported from a patrol box at 11 o'clock and was walking east on Union street when the accident happened. Two freight cars, one east and the other west, were passing at this street crossing and the noise they made prevented Zimmerly hearing the approach of the city car, and as he was standing on the track it struck him fairly. The fact that the car was slowing up for the railroad crossing is probably all that saved the policeman from serious injury.

A hurry call was sent to both the ambulance station and the patrol house and both made fast runs to the scene of the accident. The man was placed in the ambulance and taken to the Sanitarium where Drs. Barnes and Shiner attend him.

An examination showed that a long gash was cut in his forehead and ten stitches were necessary to close the wound. His chin was cut and his right shoulder badly wrenched, and there are many bruises about the body.

A peculiar coincidence of the affair is that Zimmerly was a personal friend of John Taylor, who was killed by a Pan Handle freight car at the street crossing Friday afternoon. Both men were meat cutters and they had worked together at their trade.

Zimmerly is about 50 years of age, is married and lives at 42 Union street. He passed a fairly good night and is resting as comfortably today as can be expected.

Motorman Devore said he did not see the man standing in the track until he was so close to him that it was impossible to check the speed of the car.

Mrs. Zimmerly is sick at her home and did not know of the accident until some time after it had happened.

BROWN'S DETAILED REPORT

Filed With Probe Committee Shows Slater Grafted $38,954.56

STATE LOST $66,000

Beatty Committee Will Go to Probe Fire Marshal's Office Next Week.

Columbus, Feb. 26.—A detailed report of his investigation of the regime of former State Printer Max Slater, filed with the Beatty graft probe committee yesterday by State Examiner E. F. Brown, indicates that Slater and his confederates stole $38,954.56 from the state during his five and one-half years' administration, by accepting pay for goods never delivered.

Even this amount does not represent the state's total loss through Slater, for on practically all his purchases Slater, it is charged, paid excessive prices. These ranged from 30 to 50 per cent more than the fair market value for gold leaf, and on other bindery supplies from 25 to 30 per cent in excess of market quotations. The state cannot sue to recover the excess above the market price paid for goods actually delivered. Recovery suits will have to be confined to instances where payments were made for goods never delivered.

Brown's report, when filed by the Beatty committee with the general assembly, will show that the state's loss during the Slater administration on excessive prices paid for goods delivered and amounts paid for supplies not delivered aggregated $66,000.

As a result, the loss to the state averaged $1000 a month during the 66 months of the Slater administration. According to Brown's report, $600 of the $1000 was paid for goods not delivered.

J. E. Brelsford, Dayton job printer, who confessed helping Slater graft the state, asserted he was to divide the loot equally with the state printer. If this agreement was maintained with other salesmen, they got half of the $73,954.56 and Slater the other portion. Brelsford said he had trouble getting any of the graft money, however.

Amounts alleged to have been unlawfully received are thus set out in Brown's report:

D. W. Dinsmore, Chicago, 1903-04-05	$22,727.08
Chas. Whealen, Dayton, March 9, 1905	1,026.50
J. E. Brelsford, Dayton, 1902-03-04-05	11,709.00
Slater's shortage at bindery	507.00
Total	$25,969.58

These amounts against Dinsmore, Whealen and Brelsford represent money they are alleged to have received for goods which they said they sold the state, but which Brown's report says were not delivered. The $507 charged against Slater is a balance from receipts of waste paper sales from the bindery, which, it is charged, he neglected to turn over to his successor, J. W. Johnson.

At the request of County Prosecutor Karl T. Webber, the Beatty committee made public yesterday only the total shortage against the persons alleged to be involved with Slater. Webber asserted if the various detailed data were given out it would interfere with criminal prosecutions.

The committee late yesterday afternoon gave Prosecutor Webber a copy of Brown's report. The latter was also a witness before the grand jury, which will convene today and probably Monday in investigating alleged grafting in the state printing department. A report probably will be made Tuesday. Arrests will follow this report, if indictments are returned.

Dinsmore left Chicago several weeks ago, it is reported, to represent a firm as salesman in Minnesota. It was rumored yesterday he had recently gone to Alaska. Whealen is at Dayton.

It is charged that Dinsmore grafted from the state while a salesman for Slater, Hipp & Melev, of Chicago. State examiners discovered that Dinsmore was paid $28,917.73 on vouchers for supplies alleged to have been sold Slater. An examination of the firm's books showed that it billed only $6,221.97 worth of goods to Slater on order returned by Dinsmore. The difference between $28,917.73 and $6,221.97 represents it is said, Dinsmore's and Slater's graft. Dinsmore's transactions with Slater are set out in five vouchers.

Whealen, charged in Brown's report, left Slater, through the Queen City Printing Company. He received money on four vouchers according to Brown's report, but an irregularity is shown. One, March 9, 1905, it is charged, Whealen was paid $1026.50 on a $1100 voucher. Wednesday at the time of the hearing of the Dayton American Struckmen's Association, which operated the Queen City Paper Company as a graft agency.

The Beatty committee, at a meeting yesterday, Attorney General Denman and J. Booth, agreed to make a report on the terms of H. D. Davis, D. S. Groome, W. S. P. Groome, and J. W. Johnson.

The Davis and Johnson hearing in order to free him from suspicion against his administration. It is that office Senator Booth has promised to withdraw his opposition to a Senate confirmation of Davis' appointment as United States marshal, if he is given a clean bill by the graft probe.

Examiners will begin work immediately, so that a public hearing can be held next Friday, at which time Davis either will be publicly cleared or condemned. He will be present Thursday of the date of the hearing, so he can be present. Senator Beatty says immunity will be given to no other person caught in the graft net.

Messrs. Denman and Booth will conduct this investigation, in order to obtain certain evidence and reports which they are seeking to form the causes of action in suits to be filed. The assistance of the committee was requested because of the power the members have in summoning witnesses.

Transactions of the stationery department under the administration of L. C. Laylin, former secretary of state, are to be investigated. The department at that time was under charge of George Wood, then of Bellevue, now connected with the Central Ohio Paper Company.

SLATER RELEASED.

Columbus, Feb. 26.—Mark Slater, former state printer, under indictment for presenting false vouchers during his term of office, left the county jail at 11 o'clock this morning, after a bond of $1000 had been furnished by former Judge L. D. Haggert, and T. J. Bergin, a liquor dealer, of Columbus, and L. Mez Burnhauzen, one of Slater's attorneys, of Dayton.

As soon as the bond was furnished Slater began to pack his personal effects, saying he would go to Dayton and make his home there.

DINNER AT COLUMBUS FOR ALLEN ALBERT

Columbus, Feb. 26.—A welcoming dinner will be tendered at the Great Southern Hotel next Wednesday evening to Mr. Allen Albert, the new man in charge of the Columbus News. The dinner will be given by the Democratic state officials, Democratic members of the legislative and Democratic clubs. Senator Groome will be the toastmaster and Governor Harmon one of the speakers. A number of Ohio Democratic editors will be guests at the dinner.

Stanley Wilson was in Columbus Friday night to witness the trial of a case between the girls of the Zerkville high school and the girls of the South High school of Columbus.

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—With the arrival in Philadelphia of the mounted state constabulary, the "black noise troop," the strike situation took on a different aspect. Before the advent of the state police, the rioters, who had been burning and assaulting strike breakers, had met with little effective resistance from the city police, while the calling out of the State Penitentiaries, a militia body was little more than a joke. The Pennsylvania state constabulary commander of the famous First troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry,

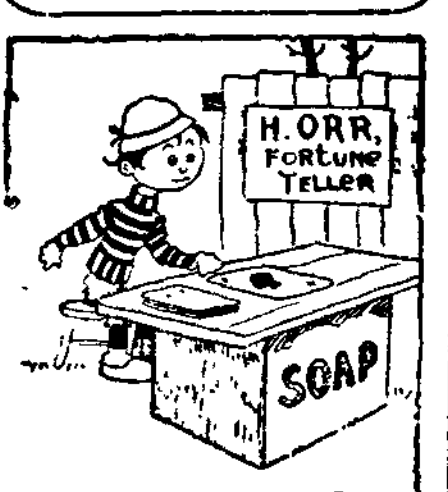

Canadian northwest mounted police and the Mexican rurales as one of the most famous bodies of mounted men in the world. They are known as men of daring and hardihood, sworn to maintain the law and having the willingness and ability to shoot and ride to kill when necessary. They are commanded by Captain John C. Groome, whose title is superintendent. He is Pennsylvania's best known militiaman, being commander of the famous First troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry.

WILL NEVER ESCAPE AGAIN

Columbus, Feb. 26.—While making his third attempt to escape from the pen, Harvey Johnson, the Franklin county burglar, was shot at 4:15 this morning in the bolt shop, and died three hours later in the prison hospital. He had served less than a year of a life sentence.

Johnson first escaped from solitary confinement, where he had been sent for refusing to work. Hastily making for the bolt shop, he began with saw, hammer and file to break the Oregon boot, which he has worn since his desperate effort to escape in September. While at work his breaking from the dungeon had been discovered and he was chased to the shop. Here he was shot and mortally wounded.

LEADER MURPHY ARRESTED

President of the Central Labor Union Held in $3,000 Bail

EIGHTH DAY OF STRIKE

Car Strikers Declare They Will Not Accept Company's Proposition.

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—John J. Murphy, president of the Central Labor Union, was held in $3,000 bail today on the charge of inciting to riot. He gave bond.

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—Philadelphia entered this morning on the eighth day of the street car strike from the belief that serious disorder had been quelled and that with the exception of minor outbreaks by half grown youths there would be no more rioting.

Several of these minor outbreaks took place in several parts of the city last night but they were put down by the city police without serious consequences. The state police, who rushed to their barracks at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, were not summoned. The trouble occurred in the early morning hours today.

John J. Murphy, president of the Central Labor Union, and one of the leaders in the present strike, who surrendered at 2:30 a. m. to the police on a warrant charging him with inciting to riot, was released on bail to appear later in the day before Magistrate Beaton. Murphy's arrest was occasioned by an interview appearing in a newspaper yesterday, which the state police were removed by Murphy's attorney as saying that "something was going on."

"The state police will be helpful," Murphy was quoted as saying. "I want it understood that there are men in the northwest who can shoot as straight as any trooper that ever drew breath. Just wait a little while and you will see something that will open your eyes."

Director Clay summoned several newspaper men to his office and asked if Murphy had made such a statement. The warrant for the arrest of Murphy denied the interview when he surrendered himself at police headquarters. The newspaper men are firm in their declaration that they quoted Murphy correctly. Street car strikers today declare they will not accept the proposition made last night by the directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., who offered to re-employ their striking motormen and conductors. To be reinstated the officials declare the strikers must apply before next Tuesday. On re-instatement the strikers would be entitled to the pension and insurance benefits of the company with increased pay July 1, as if no strike had occurred. The returning men would be termed "new employees."

C. O. Pratt, national organizer of the carmen, declared the strikers would not accept the terms offered but that the men were willing to return to work at once, providing the company would agree to fair arbitration of existing differences.

The transit officials refused to consider this, declaring they would not recognize the union and demanded the same right to employ and discharge men that men had to stay with or leave the company. The directors said that "as soon as normal conditions are restored" they will take up with the men themselves the questions needing adjustment and make satisfactory arrangements without dealing with a union organization. Large forces of police were sent today to the Kensington mill and ship yard district to reinforce the state and city police there. In this district thousands of union men and their sympathizers live. These men quit work Saturday noon.

Saturday morning several of the newspapers received "black hand" letters signed by "the committee of six" declaring that at a given signal today the state police would be attacked and annihilated.

While little credence was placed in these letters it was thought best to place a strong guard in this district to prevent crowds from assembling and to put a stop to disorder the moment it became apparent. The groups of state police were increased in camp and the territory they patrol cut down so they can be more easily mobilized if trouble arises.

Capt. Jack Groome, in charge of the "blackhairs," said he feared no outbreaks in the Kensington district but that his men were prepared for an emergency.

EXAMINING THE BOOKS.
Columbus, O., Feb. 26.—Accountants Brown and Wilcox today began an inspection of the books of the Ruggles-Gale company, of Columbus, with a view of determining for the Beatty probe committee whether commissions were paid to state officials on goods bought from that firm.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Newark People.
Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently, and there is plenty of proof right here in Newark.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Harley Speaks, 238 Boyleston Ave., Newark, Ohio, says: "I was considerably annoyed by rheumatism and acute pains across my loins that made every movement one of distress. The kidney secretions also caused me much trouble, being too frequent in passage, and though I used various remedies, none gave me more than slight relief. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, and I procured a box at Crayton & Co's drug store. They brought me prompt relief. The pains in my back disappeared, my kidneys were strengthened and I improved in every way. I have had no return of the trouble and therefore am glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

EASTER COMES EARLY.

Easter will come unusually early this year, March 27, which, to the minds of many, predicts an early spring. The earliest date upon which Easter may fall is March 25, but in a period of over 200 years the conditions brought it upon that date but once, in 1818. The day for Easter is the result of an astronomical calculation. It falls upon the first Sunday following the first full moon after the vernal equinox. The sun crosses the spring equinoctial line on March 21. If that day should be a Saturday and the moon reach the full that night the next day, March 22, would be Easter. This occurrence of events, as stated, had been recorded but once in a calculated period covering beyond two hundred years.

LACE AND CREPE METEOR

After the mad rush of balls, dinners, opera, etc., one's wardrobe is sure to need at least one new gown for after-Lent affairs, and the above model suggests an ideal design for the use of deep boucle, lace and white crepe meteor. The perfectly plain, but well-cut skirt is trimmed at bottom with a straight flounce, and some distance above is another boucle of same material, in the tunic fashion. The bodice in corset effect, also of boucle, has a wide draped bodice of the material. Shoulder pieces and short sleeves are of all-over lace. The only touch of color is the spray of large pink roses and foliage fastened on left of corsage.

An Old Ruler's Example.

One of the charges preferred against George III in the Declaration of Independence was this: "He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures."

And the Republican bosses of Ohio rush off to Washington at the beck and call of President Taft to do the thinking and acting (everything except the voting) for the rank and file of Republican voters in Ohio.

Isn't that fine! No wonder there are rumblings and grumblings among the rank and file about the need of a new declaration of political independence. They got a taste of it when they elected Governor Harmon and State Treasurer Creamer, and they propose to have more of it by making it "Harmon and a clean sweep next time."

They are weary of having the bosses called together at places unusual, however comfortable, but distant from the rank and file for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with the "party" mandates.

A Glorious Victory.

"Yes, Wade Hampton Ellis is a great man, a great lawyer and statesman," said a West Union Republican who doesn't like the way things are going in the Republican party.
"He had John D. Rockefeller on the stand for a whole day and forced John to admit he had made money!"—Adams County People's Defender.

Keeping His Promise.

When Governor Harmon said at Co-shocton, "if you elect me Governor I'll take it as a mandate to expose corruption which exists," he meant just what he said. If he is re-elected, and if his hands are not tied by an unfriendly legislature or by enemies in the state offices, the revelations of corruption will astound Ohio's citizens. He should be re-elected on these grounds, other conditions between the candidates being even.—Co-shocton Times

Why Wade Waded In.

It leaks out that Wade Ellis has a personal and selfish reason for wanting

Good Blood

It effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains arsenic, but because it combines the utmost remedial value of more than 20 different ingredients. There is no real substitute for it. If urged to buy any preparation and to be "just as good" you may be sure it is inferior, comes less to make, and costs the dealer a larger profit. Hood's Serravallo's is a small liquid, sold in chocolate tablets known as Serravallo's.

ing "to beat Harmon" this year, which accounts for his coming to Ohio to act as receiver for the G. O. P. The former steward of the Massillon hospital whom Governor Harmon caused to be fired for living luxuriously at the state's expense, is a brother-in-law of Wade Ellis.
We know that Wade was hopped up about something or he wouldn't be so eager "to beat Harmon."

As Slater Sees It.

All last summer a certain class of Republican papers reiterated the claim that Governor Harmon could not make good the campaign charges of graft at the state house.
Mark Slater does not look at it that way—and he is only one.

Only Temporary Receiver.

Since the appointment of Wade Ellis by President Taft to be receiver of the Republican party in Ohio has turned out to be so unpopular, it is quietly whispered about that the receivership is to last only until the state Republican convention.

This will carry the control of Ellis beyond the session of the legislature and reveals the original purpose of making him the go-between from the White House to the legislature for the president, Cox and Brother Charles as mentioned at the time.

In the same breath which whispers that Ellis is to be chairman only until the convention it is intimated that Garford of Elvira is to be chairman after the convention. Garford is a millionaire and will be just the man to "hold the bag" if campaign contributions fall short of campaign expenses.

Unfair to Slater.

If the Republican legislature is going to cover up graft by increasing salaries from the amounts now fixed by law to what has been illegally paid for years, as Senator Baker's bill proposes to do for several employees of the state board of public works, it might go a step farther and increase the pay of public printer so as to cover Mark Slater's rake-off.

After his arrest Mark Slater said he didn't intend to be the goat. The Republican legislature ought not to make fish of "excess salaries" in the state board of public works, and fowl of excess perquisites in the office of public printer.

PILES DISAPPEAR.

So Does Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Old Sores and Carbuncles.

Under the influence of San Cura Ointment surprising cures are made so quickly that they seem like miracles.

Old sores that have caused the most intense suffering in body and mind, and that have failed to yield to any other treatment are quickly healed after the poison has been drawn out by San Cura Ointment.

Stubborn cases of piles like those of Rev. W. F. Gilbert, of Tusculum, Pa., vanish before this marvelous antiseptic Ointment. Mr. Gilbert writes:

"For 20 years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles; at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura ointment and one 50c jar made a firm and permanent cure, and have not been troubled since."

San Cura Ointment is guaranteed by W. A. Erman & Son, who are the agents in Newark, to cure any of the above named diseases or money back. It instantly kills all pain from burns, cuts and bruises, draws out the poison and heals in a short time. 25 cents and 50 cents a jar at W. A. Erman & Son's.

GOOD BABY SOAP.

San Cura is a healing and antiseptic soap; just the soothing kind that baby needs. It frees the pores from all impurities and prevents fevers, rashes and other infantile diseases. Piles and blackheads, cleans the complexion. Best for anyone's skin, cures pimples. 25 cents a large cake at W. A. Erman & Son's.

The Advocate is in receipt of a communication from the state department of the United States in reference to the old-time and much-evaluated Spanish swindle. This scheme—political, poisonous, dear daughter, prison priest, confiscated value with hidden fortune, fourth part of which goes to the sucker, with the variations of Russian noblemen, etc.—has been exposed in this paper from time to time for the past twenty years. It is a thin game and any person who is hooked up by it gets just what he deserves for his gullibility and cupid.

If Villages Are Freed From Compulsory Primaries.

GILSON BILL WOULD DO IT

Measure an Entering Wedge in the Bronson Primary Act and It May Go Through the Legislature—Woods and Langdon Bills May Be Jammed Through—Statute of the Dean Proposition—Legislative Review.

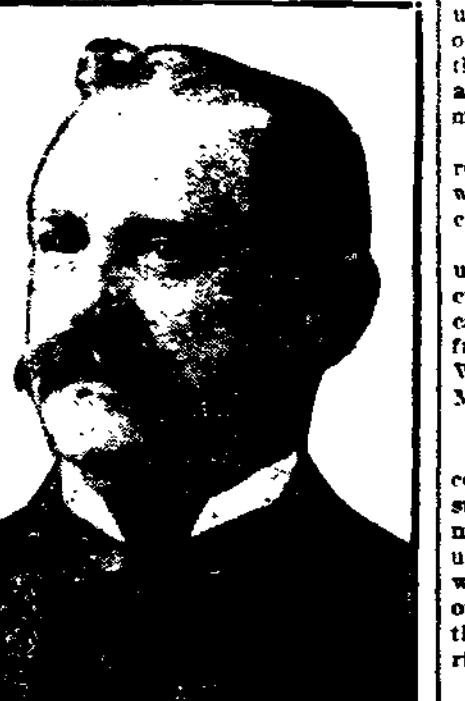

BY ORWELL C. RIDDLE.

Columbus, O., Feb. 26.—An entering wedge was driven into the primary election law when the house, by a vote of 63 to 41, passed the Gilson bill to exempt townships and villages from the operations of the Bronson act.

Representative Wilber (Rep.) of Union county very bluntly said as much before the bill was passed. He said that to pass a law exempting villages and townships this year would be followed next season by an attempt to exempt cities.

It is strange how opinions will differ. Representative Black (D.) of Ashland county declared that it was the political boss and not the people who wanted the Gilson bill passed, as it would enable the local boss in a small caucus to fix up the township and village tickets. On the other hand, Representative Woods (R.) of Medina county declared that if he were a political boss he would want the primary election law to remain as it is, because that would give him opportunity to dictate just who would be the candidates on account of the difficulty in getting men of character and integrity to enter into contests for these minor offices.

Neither Representative Ervin of Meigs county, the Republican floor leader, nor Representative Winters of Erie county, the Democratic floor leader, exerted any influence over the political divisions of the house by their speeches against the passage of the Gilson bill. Both stood on the same ground, which took the action of the house out of the realm of party politics, and the subsequent vote was of the same nature.

Of the 63 members who voted for the bill 38 were Republicans and 25 were Democrats. The 41 negative votes were cast by 23 Republicans and 18 Democrats.

The most serious aspect of the Gilson bill is its effect upon villages. There are over 20 towns in Ohio which had a population of more than 3,000 but less than 5,000 at the federal census of 1900, and therefore are classified as villages. Quite a number of these are county seats and the chief towns of their respective counties. Some of them have increased in population during the past 10 years sufficiently to put them over the 5,000-line into the city class by the census to be taken this year. But there will still be a large number of good-sized towns where the local boss will be all-powerful if villages are exempted from compulsory primary elections.

No canvass has been made to sound the sentiment of the senate, but it is confidently expected that the Gilson bill will go through the senate as easily as it got through the house.

The plan now is to bring the Dean bill for exempting wet cities from the operation of the Rose law in dry counties to a vote in the senate next Wednesday. This is tentatively agreed upon by the senate committee upon municipal affairs, which has the bill under consideration.

There was a sharp colloquy between some of the members of the committee when the bill was taken up this week, accompanied by strong insinuations that unless the committee reported the bill back promptly another way would be taken to bring it before the senate. This was a hint that a motion would be made to take the bill from the committee and place it upon the calendar.

One reason for asking that the bill go over until next week was that some members wanted sufficient time to compare it with the plan that was the same purpose introduced at the session last year. It is plain that there is quite a difference in the philosophy of the present bill and that which the senate defeated a year ago.

The committee will meet again Tuesday morning to take up the bill for final consideration, will report it to the senate Tuesday afternoon, and it will probably be made a special order for Wednesday afternoon.
No change in the line up of the senators on either side has been detected so far. Unless there is a change the bill will be defeated by a vote of 18 to 16, as it was last year. A change of two votes will be necessary to pass the bill in the senate. A change of only one vote would result in a tie (if all senators were present), which the lieutenant governor would have to decide.

While the noise over the Dean bill is on in the senate and public attention is attracted in that direction, the Republican leaders are planning to jam the Woods utilities bill and Langdon tax bill through the house.

Although several public hearings have been held on the Woods bill by the house committee on railroads and telegraphs, it is understood that the bill will be reported back practically without amendments other than some proposed by its putative father, Mr. Woods, to "strengthen" it.

This will mean that, unless gavel rule is applied, amendments thick as snowflakes will be offered on the floor of the house.

No measure ever proposed in the legislature of Ohio was more loosely drawn or so generally unsatisfactory as this utilities bill. It is as full of "sleepers" as a tramp lodging house in zero weather. Why any corporations in Ohio should oppose it, except as a feint to make the people believe that it actually "strikes a terrific blow at corporations," would be a mystery to any one not acquainted with "their tricks and their manners." The most unsatisfactory feature of the bill to public utilities is that it does not entirely remove the franchise powers of city councils and county commissioners and lodge those powers in the proposed commission.

Except that it rips the present state railroad commission out of existence and creates another commission exactly like it to take its place, a piece of chicanery in itself to give the measure a semblance of being new and original, the utilities bill would give the state a commission that would be a sinecure neither useful nor ornamental.

The Langdon tax bill is also to be returned to the house practically without amendments of a beneficial character.

For these are "Republican measures," you see and are therefore sacred in the estimation of a Republican majority, which takes its orders from Cox and Brother Charles, via the White House, through Speaker Mooney, Vorys and Wade Ellis.

Meanwhile Senator Alsdorf's tax commission bill is being held in cold storage by the senate taxation committee. There have been hearings upon it, but it is not likely that it will ever get back again to the floor of the senate. It will be held up so that the Langdon bill may have the right of way.

The senate taxation committee may put some of the provisions of the Alsdorf bill into the Langdon bill when it comes over from the house. That is as far as the political program of the majority will permit the legislature to go.

Senator Alsdorf's bill to limit the rate of taxation stands a better show of enactment. Mr. Alsdorf has had it amended in committee to limit the rate to 1 per cent. When introduced the bill proposed a maximum limit of 1 1/4 per cent (15 mills), beyond which the rate could not be increased without a vote of the people.

Land appraisers over the state, fearing that the legislature would not put a sufficient check upon the tax rate, have not been appraising real estate uniformly at full value, as required by the state constitution.

When he introduced his tax limit bill, Mr. Alsdorf put the maximum at 15 mills to enable counties with small tax duplicates to raise sufficient funds for their local needs. Of course, no county would be required to levy the maximum rate just because it could be done. This would be a matter for the local authorities themselves to decide. The rate might easily be 12 mills or 10 mills or 8 mills, or even as low as 6 mills, if sufficient to raise the necessary local funds.

In his message to the legislature, Governor Harmon suggested that the rate might be safely limited to 1 per cent (10 mills), and this has been the prevailing sentiment throughout the state.

Mr. Alsdorf therefore has asked the committee to change the maximum rate proposed in his bill to 10 mills (1 per cent), and it will be so reported to the senate.

Representative Stambaugh (D.) of Hamilton county was the original proponent of nominating candidates for congress in all districts by primaries.

He introduced a bill for that purpose (H. B. No. 248) in the house Feb. 3, a week before Representative Hawkins (R.) of Jackson county introduced his bill (H. B. No. 332), now on the house calendar for third reading. As Hawkins is chairman of the house committee on elections, it was an easy matter for him to have the Stambaugh bill throttled so that public credit for such a measure, if enacted, would not be carried off by a Democrat.

KILLING OF ALASKAN BILL.

Now Guggenheim Agents Told Too Much.

MORGAN IN THE BACKGROUND

Friends of Pinchot Elected at Disclosure—The New Senator From Mississippi—Navy Given a Trial Case of Reform—Taft Policies Still Hung Up in Congress.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The story of the sidetracking of President Taft's Alaska bill and the testimony of the representatives of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate are still the talk of Washington. While there remains an element of mystery in the reason for the voluntary appearance of the syndicate representatives, Birch and Steele, it is now understood that they came at the behest of Senator Guggenheim, and the purpose was to deny some of the stories about the syndicate's Alaskan interests. In short, they were intended to say that the Morgan-Guggenheim affair is not as black as painted. They did say that—and other things. It was "the other things" that caused the trouble. Perhaps the most serious disclosure was the sworn admission that there is a syndicate, leaving the inference that the plan was all prearranged to get control of the coal lands and other resources of Alaska for the benefit of this syndicate. The $200,000,000 admission was also significant, giving some slight indication of the immense value of these Alaskan properties over which the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy has waged. The testimony was intended to help the Guggenheims. As a matter of fact, it has depressed the Ballinger people, elated the Pinchot partisans and practically killed the Taft Alaskan bill for this session.

Morgan Here and Morgan There.

The coupling of the name of Morgan with the Guggenheims, while it disclosed nothing new to those who have been in touch with the situation, came as a revelation to the general public. The man in the street begins to wonder just how many affairs Mr. Morgan is behind. When Minister Designate Crane was summarily bounced the news came out that Morgan was interested, when the Manchurian loan and railway tangle were up the man chiefly concerned was found to be Morgan, when six railway presidents went to see Taft Morgan applied for the interview, when any financial or industrial legislation comes to the front Morgan is discerned somewhere in the background, and now this Alaskan proposition, involving, as it does, the whole conservation imbroglio, discloses the figure of Morgan. There is a growing conviction here and elsewhere that Mr. Morgan has his finger in altogether too many governmental pies.

Vardaman Still Fighting.

The election of Leroy Percy for the unexpired term of the late Senator McLaurin of Mississippi not only ends the political if not the poetical career of Colonel Gordon as a national figure, but puts a period at least temporarily to the senatorial hopes of ex-Governor James K. Vardaman. It is true Governor Vardaman served notice that he would be a candidate again, but he did that when John Sharp Williams was elected. Little is known of Percy here except that he is a lawyer and planter. His father was a justice of the supreme court of Mississippi and a dashing cavalry leader in the Confederate army. During the long senatorial deadlock Vardaman said the railroads were trying to defeat him and were favoring a certain other candidate.

Trying on Reform in the Navy.

The action of the house naval committee in voting to give the reorganization plans of Secretary Meyer a year's test can scarcely result otherwise than in their permanent adoption. The fight against what has been called "the naval ring" has been going on for a score of years and more. It grew especially acute during the Spanish war. The ring was charged with many things, among which was the building of defective battleships.

What is Happening to Taft Policies.

Congress has now progressed to the point at which some line can be got on what congress will probably do with the Taft policies. Judging by what has been done, these are the concrete results up to date: The first policy was revision of the tariff downward, and everybody knows what happened to that, although all are not agreed as to whether the tariff really was revised upward, downward or sideways. The corporation tax was also a Taft policy, and a large hole has been found in that. Federal incorporation, ship subsidies and the Alaskan bill are sidetracked. The postal savings bank bill will soon be hung up between Uncle Joe Cannon and the insurgents. A joker has been discovered in the interstate commerce measure which, it is charged, will favor the big corporations at the expense of the little ones. The conservation measures have most of them been attacked by ex-Forester Pinchot. The injunction bill has scarcely been discussed as yet. The Arizona-New Mexico statehood bill may pass. The extra session and almost three months of the regular session have gone, and this is the net result.

THE GUY STOCK COMPANY AND WANDA AT THE AUDITORIUM ALL NEXT WEEK.

A thrill for every minute comes close to being the record of the Guy Stock company, who will be the attraction at the Auditorium theatre all next week, starting on Monday, February 26, and continue with a change of bill nightly and a matinee every day.

As love, passion, sensation and comedy form the basis of the play of the people of today, no audience wishes to sleep away an evening over some impossible or intangible motive, the average play-goer must see the story and grasp it quickly, the play must be performed with vim and dash, the Guy Stock company, with Mr. G. Carlton Guy as the stellar attraction, give the people what they want, the rattle of his witty dialogue and his numerous occasions for explosive roars of laughter help to carry out the merry travesty, which affords his abundant chances to indulge in a lively flow of humorously novel and figurative speech, and since laughing is a monopoly of humanity, this excellent company gives one of the finest fields for its successful exploitations.

In conjunction with the drama, first class vaudeville is introduced between the acts, making it practically a continuous performance. One of the specialties, that of "Wanda," the woman of mystery, is alone worth more than the price of admission asked. "Wanda" is not a clairvoyant, spiritualistic medium or pretender of any sort, she does not claim to be infallible, but the high percentage of correct answers which these visions (which she seems to see) enable her to give, makes her performance one of the most mystifying, entertaining and instructive, now before the public. "Wanda" will positively appear at each and every performance of the Guy Stock company.

"THE SOUL KISS."

Something very touch out of the ordinary is promised in the engagement of "The Soul Kiss," which comes to the Auditorium early in March for an engagement of one night. "The Soul Kiss," which is serving as a vehicle for the exploitations of Mlle. Fortina, a premiere danseuse, who startled Paris this spring with her graceful and alluring dancing. Beyond any

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Today and tomorrow will be the last chance to see a very clever bill at the Orpheum. The skating act of Joe Kennedy is one that shows what can be done on "The Rollers," and his skating with whips around the different bottles without breaking is very good. Schmitzbaum still continues to "get 'em" going and Khady and Shady are a hit. The Tolans are good and come in for their share of applause. The Chamberlains, basso artists, do stunts that certainly are wonderful and they will merit the applause given them after each performance. Starting with the Monday matinee the management announce the strongest bill of the season in the following program: Sydney Toledo, The Human Lizard, in a spectacular gymnastic display; Jim London, that very funny singing comedian; Napoleon Derrant, the artist, and the feature act, "The Typing Secretaries," an act of six people, three men and three women, introducing with special scenery effects, etc. Grand Opera selections. Below we give their program:

Mari-Mari—Dan Denton and Company.

Drinking Song—Joseph Florian.

The Last Rose of Summer—Vivace Lampe.

Quartette from Bohemian Girl—Marie Scherzer, Dan Denton, Rita Ravensberg, George Sumner.

Funiculi Funicula—Entire Company.

STAGE GOSSIP.

The third week of Eugene Walter's new play, "Just a Wife," in which Charlotte Walker is appearing as a star, has proved ample justification for David Belasco's production of one of the most daring sex problem plays thus far seen in New York.

Billie Burke, in "Mrs. Dot," at the Lyceum theatre, enters upon the fifth week of her New York engagement. Her success thus far has led Charles Frohman to announce that "Mrs. Dot" will be Miss Burke's play for an entire year. Under the fun and delightful light comedy with which W. Somerset Maugham dresses all his plays, there is a serious idea in "Mrs. Dot" which causes discussion. At the end of the first act Mrs. Dot (Billie Burke) makes the statement that a woman can get whatever she wants. The remainder of the play is devoted to showing that she is right.

"The Lily" continues to draw capacity houses at the Belasco-Stuyvesant theatre.

"The Traveling Salesman," by the business done at the Savoy theatre this last week, showed plainly that it could again play a long and successful run in New York city. The engagement at the Savoy theatre, which is a limited one, enters upon its final week tomorrow evening. Mr. Forbes' humorous viewpoint of the commercial traveler's road experience is fresh and full of laughter.

The ticket sellers at the Globe theatre continue to work overtime booking reservations for Montgomery & Stone's performances in "The Old Town." The capacity of New York's newest theatre has been taxed since the opening night. Seats for March and the remaining weeks of February are now selling.

At the Gaiety "The Fortune Hunter" continues one of the season's most pronounced successes.

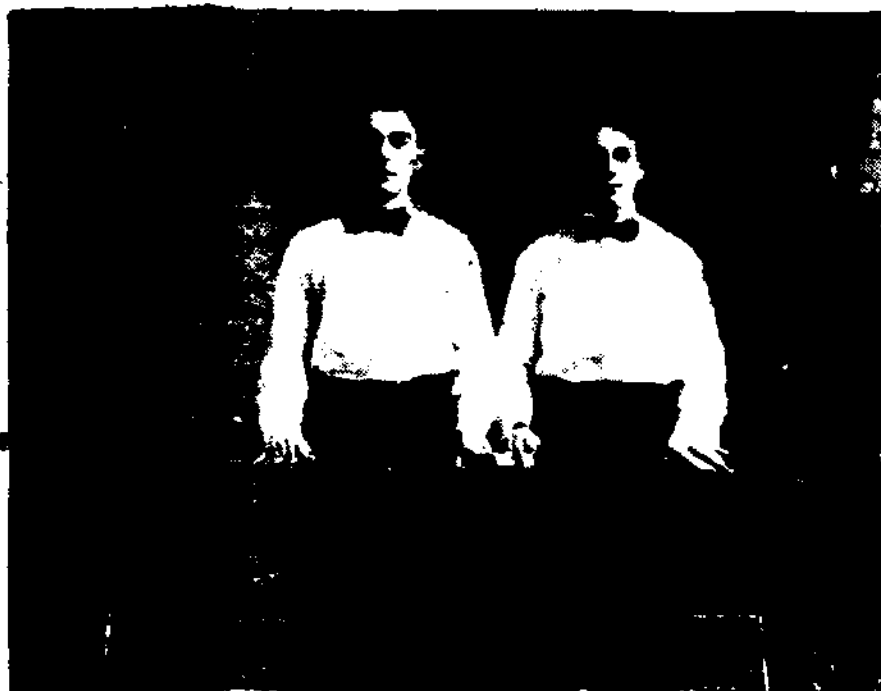

William Collier begins his second month in "A Lucky Star" at the Hudson theatre. "A Lucky Star" was written by the clever author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," but it makes little difference who writes Mr. Collier's plays. After he has been playing them for a month each bears the inimitable touch of the comedian. The "Collierized" play is always the funniest thing in town, and "A Lucky Star" is no exception to the rule.

H. B. Wagner and "Alas Jimmy Valentine" have engaged quarters at Wallack's for the entire season. The play about the bank burglar and in the banker's daughter is the sort of States in one of the firm's big spectacular productions.

Blanche Ring has registered a number New York making even more of a personal success than she did in "The Midnight Sons." On the occasion of her metropolitan opening play about the bank burglar and in the banker's daughter is the sort of that makes audiences hold fast to the chairs and breathe hard. An admirable company supports Mr. Warner.

The Musical Tolans at the Orpheum Theatre Tonight.

Francis Wilson is finishing his second month in "The Bachelor's Baby" at the Criterion theatre. He will probably still be there when summer comes again, for this play of fun and sentiment has caught the town.

"The Dollar Princess" at the Knickerbocker theatre, is rounding out its full half year and nearing its 200th New York performance. This is the 24th consecutive week that it has placed to capacity week. The report that Donald Brinn, who plays the Dollar Princess secretary, Freddy Smythe, is going to leave musical comedy, is true, but his contract with Chas. Frohman is so drawn that he will finish out the year with "The Dollar Princess."

"The Arcadians" at the Liberty theatre, began its fifth week in New York. From the first night the curtain went upon the first performance this delightful musical comedy was an assured success.

"The Young Turk" continues to be one of the theatrical magnets of Broadway that draw the crowds in quest of diversion and recreation. Max Rogers, Maude Raymond and their supporting company have settled well and comfortably into their parts, while the elaborate production supplied by Klaw & Erlanger is a pleasing pictorial background for the comedy and music of the piece.

Otis Skinner in "Your Humble Servant," at the Garrick theatre, in New York, enters upon the sixth week of his engagement. Lafayette Towers is a character that has "caught on" so to speak. People have a genuine human interest in him, as if he were a reality, not a stage creation. They also enjoy being taken behind the scenes of the country theatre at Woodport, where Towers is playing "The Bandit's Bride."

Charles Klein's play will be acted by Rose Starn, who believes this is the last year of her term in "The Chorus Lady" at the New Amsterdam theatre. The popularity of the Forbes play is undiminished, but Miss Starn is played nearly everywhere and will be ready for Klein when it is ready for her. Klein is done with preaching for awhile. He will now be funny on purpose.

"The supreme drama of tears and thrills" is the one given to "Madame X," now playing so great a record of success at the New Amsterdam theatre. The public cordially approves the critical verdict upon Alexander Dumas' sensational drama is shown by the extraordinary crowds in nightly attendance. Honors of a very high order have come to Dumas, Bonnelly, Robert Dronet, William Elliott, W. H. Denny, R. Paton, George Mitchell, Williams, Deldre Doyle, Cecil Kern and the other principals.

Mlle. Adeline Genee announces she will be married June 1 in London. She will play one more season, however, under the management of Klaw & Erlanger before she retires from the stage. Her tour will cover all the principal cities in the United days in advance. The lobby of the theatre was a veritable bower of floral gifts, which were sent to the popular actress by many managers and most of the music publishers, including Jerome H. Remick and Maurice Shapiro.

At the Astor "Seven Days" enters into the sixteenth week of its run tomorrow. If laughter has any power to cure ailments a great many persons must be feeling better than they did awhile ago, for the audiences laugh and laugh nightly and carry away no regrets.

"The Lily" continues to break records at the Belasco-Stuyvesant theatre, where it has been playing to packed houses since its premiere. In addition to the regular Thursday and Saturday matinees, there was a special holiday matinee on Washington's birthday.

"The Dollar Princess" at the Knickerbocker theatre, begins the twenty-fifth week of its extraordinary run. Making a liberal allowance for the percentage of those who go more than once to see this delightful musical comedy, there have already been over two hundred thousand different and delighted witnesses of the musical comedy adventures of eccentric John Cowder and his daughter, niece, housekeeper, secretaries and housemaid.

Max Rogers and Maude Raymond begin their last week at the New York theatre in "The Young Turk." This attraction has received liberal patronage during its stay at the New York. "Bright Eyes" will succeed "The Young Turk."

The sign, "All Seats Sold," continues to be hung out nightly at the New Amsterdam theatre, where "Madame X" is pursuing its triumphant course. Even the hitherto unapproached attendance figures registered at that theatre in "The Merry Widow" are being equaled.

Billie Burke, in "Mrs. Dot," at the Lyceum theatre, begins the week 4 month of her New York engagement. Billie Burke has a charm and freshness that are all her own. There is no young actress on the American stage who is able to put over the fond lights the delightful quality of girlish fondness as Miss Burke.

Francis Wilson in "The Bachelor's Baby" at the Criterion theatre, begins the third month of his run. "The Bachelor's Baby" deserves its success. The story of the first girl orphan, left to grow up in a boarding school, and then when she discovers for her own sake that she is really a noble and distinguished family.

William Collier in "A Lucky Star" at the Hudson theatre, begins the sixth month of his New York engagement. Mr. Collier is among one of the finest stars of the season. People who want to laugh without having to laugh at his plays as a regular thing.

Edith Barrymore in "Milk and Honey" at the Empire theatre this week completes the most successful month of her extraordinary stage career. "Milk and Honey" is a strong play. Edith Barrymore is the "strong" but Edith Barrymore has brought her sweetness and charm into the picture which Edith Barrymore did not fully emphasize in his lines.

The Canal Winchester basketball team, which challenged the Newark five, in the Columbus papers, to a game on their floor, went down to defeat last night before the locals by the overwhelming score of 53 to 28.

The Winchesters, led by Coach Columbus players, with the help of a slippery floor, hoped to win from Newark and the large crowd was disappointed when they lost. The first half ended 31 to 12 and with the game on ice the Livingston bunch eased up in the second half. As usual Black and Livingston started with 11 and 9 goals respectively, while Woodward followed closely with 6. The guarding of Reinbold and Lindermood was good and their passing accurate. CRIES OF BABE
Spartinsville, Miss., Feb. 26.—The cries of a starving baby whose dead mother lay on the floor of the house with her head crushed and throat cut from ear to ear, attracted the attention of a negro early today, resulting in the discovery of what is believed to be a double murder. Isadore Sparkman, a farmer, and the husband of the dead woman, was arrested as a suspect. Near the body of Mrs. Sparkman was that of Duke Willis. His head had also been crushed and a bloody crowbar stood in one corner of the room. It is evident that both Willis and Mrs. Sparkman had been dead for several days, and as the Sparkman home is in a secluded place it is probable that the bodies might have never been found had it not been for the crying of the starving baby. Sparkman refuses to discuss the finding of the bodies or what may have led up to the crime.

ADVOCATE REPORTER VISITS "CHERRY HILL" FRUIT FARM

Thousands of Fruit Trees and Berry Bushes Will Soon be Yielding Lucious Fruit and Delicious Berries of All Kinds

Large Cannery Has Been Erected On the Farm Fully Equipped With Modern Machinery and Power Engine to Take Care of 10,000 Cans Per Day.

In every well regulated community there is always that which invites attention to the place, and in no instance is this more marked than the little hamlet of Toloso, or Black Hand, where quite an extensive cannery industry has sprung up during the past several years, and which has already become quite well known throughout Central Ohio.

Some years ago the E. H. Everett company, of Newark, purchased a large tract of land, about one mile west of Black Hand, on which were located large deposits of sand stone, and which has furnished the peculiar and necessary sand for the making of glass. The tract consists of about two hundred and fifty acres of land, which has been converted into a mammoth fruit farm, and where a cannery industry of considerable extent is now flourishing.

Friday an Advocate reporter boarded an interurban car and went down to Black Hand, from which place he struck out on foot into the country, headed for the Cherry Hill fruit farm, belonging to the E. H. Everett company, which bids soon to become the model fruit farm of Central Ohio. He arrived at the farm in short order and found a number of men engaged in erecting a new building under the direction of the manager, Mr. H. A. Albry, who extended a most cordial greeting to the reporter. Mr. Albry is a young married man and lives with his wife in a fine house on the farm, near the main road, which is equipped with all the modern conveniences such as water furnished from a never failing spring, furnace, bath room, etc.

Mr. Albry, upon learning the object of the reporter's visit, took considerable pains to explain everything in connection with the working of the large farm, on which thousands of fruit trees and acres of different varieties of berries are growing. He said that the cannery industry on the farm, while only in its infancy, gave promise of great results in the near future.

As soon as the spring weather will permit active operations will commence on the farm, and among the first things that will be done will be some land-clearing work on the premises near the house, which will give the place a most attractive appearance from the main road.

Mr. Albry informed the reporter that at the present time there were growing on the farm 5500 cherry trees six years old, which will soon commence bearing; 12,000 peach trees of different varieties, of bearing age; 2000 young apple trees and 100 old ones; 2,000 plum trees of different varieties; 2000 quince trees, which occupy the low lands along the streams; 1200 pear trees. Besides all these there are growing on the place many acres of small fruits. The more level parts of the farm are occupied by blackberries, raspberries and dew berries, the latter being treised with wire. On the place there are also three acres of grapes, all in good bearing condition; 12 acres of strawberries, of the best varieties, of which three acres are bearing. There are also 10 acres of blackberries and raspberries and one acre of dew berries and 3000 currant and 3000 gooseberries bushes. Most of the currants and gooseberries are planted between the cherry trees, while the more level portions between the cherry trees has strawberry plants of all the best varieties, in addition to currant and gooseberry. Tomatoes, beans, beets and potatoes comprise the principal vegetable crops and they are grown between the younger trees.

Mr. Albry says that the fertility is maintained by the generous use of manure, several car loads of this kind of fertilizer being given the ground each month. No commercial fertilizer is used as the men employed on the place mix their own fertilizer at little cost.

Everything is thoroughly sprayed by a power sprayer, the power being furnished by a gasoline engine.

Mr. Albry also informed the reporter that in addition to the fruit business he would keep a number of the very best imported horses, of Belgian stock, for work and breeding.

When the cannery season commences, Cherry Hill Fruit Farm will become a veritable hive of industry, from twenty-five to thirty men and from 12 to 15 women being constantly employed in the orchards and cannery house. The cannery house, by the way, is a substantial frame building 24x38, equipped with all modern machinery necessary to the running of a first-class cannery, including a thirty-horse power engine. The cannery will have a capacity for canning from six to ten thousand cans of fruit or vegetables per day. All the output of the cannery will be raised on the farm, and will consist principally of beans, tomatoes, corn, beets, cherries, apples, strawberries, and all the fruits mentioned above. Mr. Albry said that he expected to run a light poultry business in connection with the fruit and cannery industry. Insects will be used for hatching and a colony house, 628 feet, will be supplied which can be moved to any part of the farm. The chickens will be used for cleaning up the insects on the farm. Mr. Albry is an experienced man in the business and has great hopes of the future.

OIL AND GAS NEWS.

The Southern company have completed their well No. 1 on the Griggs farm in Jackson township. It is reported to be a nice oil well and the production can hardly be estimated for a few days until the well is put in shape.

The Alberta company will complete their well No. 4 on the Haine lease in Jackson City field this week. This well is located within a short distance from the big Crown well on the Brown lot and should be one of the large ones if location counts for anything.

The Magnolia company will deliver their third dividend at a meeting of the directors in Columbus. This company have thirteen wells all producing and three more started on the Bryson farm of 120 acres. This is one of the few companies that has not drilled a dry well.

The Magnetic Oil and Gas company that was organized about one year ago has at last succeeded in getting oil. Their first attempt in the Bremen field was a failure as it proved to be a dry spot. After the failure in the Bremen field they moved their tools to Monroe county, and the well which came in last week is reported to be good for about 20 barrels per day. It is located near Woodsfield.

The Laurel Creek company are making very slow progress with their well No. 2 near Laureville. They are down about 1500 feet and are having considerable trouble in hauling the water in the line.

The Clintonian well on the Kessler farm has not been shaped up since it was shut but is reported as having 2220 feet of fluid in the hole.

The Fidelity company is making rapid progress on the Tracey farm, near the Clintonian holdings and will drill in within a few days.

The Turkey Run company is progressing nicely with their well No. 1 on the Whitmer farm.

The Ohio-Bremen company have completed their well No. 1 on the Harick farm in Jackson township and have a nice oil well. This is one of the leases taken over by this company from the Overland company.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF WASHINGTON—I.

The Great Taft "Silencer" (With apologies to Hiram Maxim, Jr.) By Barry Powers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—A couple of months ago when the now famous "silencer" order went forth from the White House every one believed it was a gentle hint to congressmen, senators and others to be good and keep away from things that touched on the presidential prerogatives; that it was a nudge to Cannon and the rest to get in line. Of course there was a howl. Howling is an ancient congressional right, and a congressman who does not howl occasionally is quite evidently not earning his salary, but it has now been borne in on the howlers that they squeaked before they were hit. The large man in the White House had not intended the slap for them. He had been giving the diplomatic corps a tip on how to get action in one direction by shooting in another.

Quite evidently the genial Mr. Taft was tired of the large, gobs of unauthorized talk that rose like a cloud from every bureau chief and departmental subhead, and he put up his illuminated sign, "Fen Talking." Presumably he did not care a peseta whether Senator Forthum or Congressman Butts did or did not get information out of a department. He was after a few gentlemen who had been too generous with their language. The hardest satirical punch he has delivered was directed at a certain bureau chief. "What do you think of So-and-so?" he was asked. "He's doing good work, eh?"

Mr. Taft smiled. "He's a man of very few thousand words," was the reply, and Mr. Taft turned away.

The president was after Gifford Pinchot when he framed that order, and his little trap caught the quarry. Smiling the executive has whisked on the mystic symbol "I" on the door of his office, and he is now waiting for another mouse to walk in and nibble at the cheese. Does any gentleman in the audience wish to hazard a guess? Stop right up and drop your little ballot in the box, sir. Thank you! The gentleman registers one guess for Dr. Wiley. No, there is no mistake, signors. It is Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, the gentleman means.

Actually and seriously there is active and genuine betting in Washington on just how long the genial doctor will stand the strain of enforced silence. He has things to say, lots of them, and Secretary James Wilson won't let him say them. Secretary James W. can't see the necessity for the burning words that Wiley wants to uncock, and, since he can't see, he just screws the cork in a little tighter. Dr. Wiley goes about trying to look as if he liked it, but he doesn't. Not a little bit. Not any more than an eel cares to be skinned. He has things to say about that whisky decision of Mr. Taft's, and he can't explain. The whole soiled William was careful enough to screw the manhole cover down tight before he reversed the Wiley findings, and his expansive smile is now threatening the safety of his back collar button. Wiley would like to say things about that other reversal in the sulphur dioxide case in California that Professor Alonzo E. Taylor handed out the other day, but he can't. It's against the order, so Dr. Wiley waits and waits and waits and waits, and the dust is settling on the typewriter. If he talks he follows Pinchot, and he's not ready to take the trail to the hinterland yet awhile. He said—before the stop order went into effect—that there were a whole lot of holes in the pure food law he wanted to putty up.

The good doctor walked into the Willard the other night and roamed the corridors. Those correspondents tackled him about whisky. He smiled as does a man with a toothache at a merry chuck about a dentist. He knew a trifle flushed and observed this:

"We've had very little snow in Washington this year."

They tried him on sulphur dioxide, and he murmured:

"I have always regarded whisky hazel as a valuable remedy for bruises."

Then he passed up the cafe and sat down at a table. His appetite is falling off. Incidentally it is remarked that the bureau of chemistry stenographer is growing fat and that the trail across Iowa to the bureau is becoming known with an early variety of grass. The correspondents on dull days no longer hike for Dr. Wiley's office. What's the use?

He is bottled up, and stories for publication now come out from the careful and methodical hands of Jasper Wilson, who goes over them with a magnifying glass and a private Bottillon system in a search for "fathers' O. K."

In the interior department it is as much as a correspondent's life is worth to try to talk to any one but Secretary Ballinger. It is just as profitable as a not wholly without value for Secretary Wilson had openly stated that in view of the persistance of Dr. Wiley's work in recent months he has arranged to have all the work of the chemistry branch the cold air boxes of the furnace. A man checked. In the meantime Dr. Wiley is hopelessly bottled, and Mr. Taft is smiling.

The latest operations from the local sporting houses show a growing tendency on the part of those covetable persons who find humor in the contemplation of official Washington to pay a rising market. The prices run daily higher. The betting is now 10 to 7 that Wiley will either talk or explode before March 1. The specialists in gossip—steep with telephone beside their heads. Hospitals have been instructed and hold a special ambulance in readiness. As an indication of the nervous tension last week a colored janitor fell into a cellar on Dr. Wiley's residential block. The first one brought out twelve gentlemen with black bags, all more or less disillable. A messenger sprained his ankle at the department of agriculture, and the call for an ambulance brought Major Sylvester's reserves up all standing. Medical and sporting circles are going to arrange for a special ball in service, and the excitement all the greater for repression grows dull. Will he talk and lose his official head or will he continue those burning words and—BANG?

CALL ON AMERICA TO ASSIST IN SUPPRESSING SLAVE TRADE

Terrible Death Rate Among the Blacks Imported from Angola---Come from Interior in Slave Caravans Shackled to Prevent Escape.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The American government has called on England to suppress the slave trade in Africa. This though it might have been a hundred years ago, but it is to the year 1905 that it is true the situation has come through official channels, at those presenting it have the official support of the English government. Mr. Joseph Burtt, of London, has been in the city for some days presenting the matter to the officials of the government, including President Taft, Secretary of State Knox, Senator Root and a number of others to whom he brought letters of introduction from distinguished Englishmen and Americans as well. Mr. Burtt is representing the Anti-Slavery and Abolition Protection Society of England, of which Sir T. Fowell Buxton is president, and which has for its object the stamping out of the slave trade in all parts of the world.

The visit of Mr. Burtt to this country is to arouse sentiment against slave-grown cocoa. In the early part of the nineteenth century England suppressed the slave trade with her guns and ships. Today she employs more modern methods and in this case has resorted to commercial agencies on the behalf of freedom. In other words, the appeal is that all Americans should join with the English, Dutch and Germans and cease to buy slave-grown cocoa. While this is going on, Mr. Burtt hopes to arouse sufficient interest in congress to secure the adoption of a resolution condemning the slave trade in Portuguese Africa, which supplies the labor for the cocoa plantations. Early last year the English cocoa manufacturing firms, aroused by the horror perpetrated in securing the labor for the Portuguese plantations, declared they would buy no more of the product. Great manufacturers of Germany and Switzerland joined the movement. The Portuguese islands of San Thome and Principe, lying off the west coast of Africa, produce about one-sixth of the world's supply of cocoa, and the practical European protest was severely felt by the planters. But they had America on which to dump their cocoa, so the anti-slavery society sent Mr. Burtt here to lay the situation before the American government and people and especially the cocoa manufacturers. A number of leading manufacturers have agreed not to buy any more Portuguese cocoa until free labor is introduced and the National Consumers' League has taken up the cause with the object of urging consumers to decline to buy cocoa manufactured from slave-grown raw material. Already there have been evidences given that the Portuguese planters are alarmed at the situation and are taking steps toward reform. Two thousand free laborers were shipped to the island last year and some of the laborers were sent back to their native land of Angola. The agitation in America promises to press forward these reforms, which will end a disgraceful traffic which has existed for years.

Mr. Burtt has made two trips to Angola, Portuguese West Africa, where the slaves are recruited, and has thoroughly explored the plantations of San Thome and Principe, so that he is able to speak with authority. He made his preparations for the journey with the greatest care, spending some months in Portugal, studying the language and customs of the people before setting out for Africa. He spent nearly six months at the cocoa plantations, an considerably longer on the continent, the trip consuming nearly two years in all. During this time he interviewed men and women of all stations and degrees, from the governors-general of Angola and Mozambique, the governors of San Thome, Principe, Cabinda, Benguela and Mossamedes, consuls, commissioners and other officials, down to the natives themselves. Speaking of the conditions he found there, Mr. Burtt said:

"The island of San Thome lies in the Gulf of Guinea, 200 miles west of the French Congo. It has an area of 116 square miles, is mountainous and well watered, and with its rich soil and hot, damp atmosphere, is peculiarly suited for tropical agriculture. Principe is about 100 miles to the northeast, with an area of 40 square miles and a similar climate and soil, but for some reason the natives, who will not work and the cultivation is confined to sugar, imported from Angola. No official figures are available as to the number of slaves in the islands, but it is estimated that there are about 10,000 in San Thome and 5,000 in Principe. The death rate is very high, and the slaves are kept in a state of constant suffering. The slaves are obtained either by capture or through being sold for debt, and the traders resort to all manner of schemes to get possession of their chattels. One of the most common was the sale of 15. An old slave had once been sold to a Portuguese trader for 100, but he was both dead, but in this ancient grievance Saulam took possession of Neyambi and exchanged her with a Portuguese trader for another slave, making Neyambi a slave for life. I could recite numerous instances under my personal observation where slaves have been bought for a few yards of cloth or some trinkets, or have been sold away in payment of slight obligations. They are shipped to the plantations as laborers who have voluntarily entered into a five-year contract.

Numbers come from the interior in slave caravans, but as they are shackled to prevent escape. These shackles are made of wood with a fork for the neck and holes through which the hands or feet are passed. A stout wooden peg is driven through the side dividing the ankles and wrists and making withdrawal impossible. We saw many skeletons along the road and met a few corpses. The further we penetrated into the interior the easier it was to purchase slaves. Much trading is done about Kavungo, which is near the English and Congo Free State territories and where the offender can escape over the border when hard pressed. About 10 years ago a number of soldiers revolted from the Congo Free State and have been joined by outlaws and marauders until they are now numerous and dangerous. Many of them are cannibals and they raid villages and sell the inhabitants to the Portuguese traders. I know of one case where a trader bought 20 natives for a small bore rifle.

On the islands there is little difficulty in keeping the slaves in service indefinitely. Once in the islands the Angolan remains there until death, but his frequent attempts to escape show he does not remain voluntarily. During my stay in 1905 I heard of but one case of repatriation, and that was not authenticated.

"It is true," said Mr. Burtt in conclusion, "that these laborers are not servants and their servitude is the servile system. I am satisfied, however, that under the 'servile system' as it exists, thousands of black men and women are, against their will and under circumstances of great cruelty, taken away every year from their homes and transported across the sea to work on unhealthy islands, from which they never return. If that is not slavery and they are not slaves, I know of no words in the English language to correctly express their condition."
